IPN Candidacy Exam Approval Form

The candidacy examination is an oral examination designed to evaluate the student's ability to carry out original scholarship and to confirm that the candidate is a suitable candidate for a PhD degree. Students are required to present the background and rationale for their proposed studies, the specific hypotheses and objectives, the methodology, results obtained to date and future directions. They are then queried on topics related to the proposed area of research by an examination committee that consists of all the members of the student's supervisory committee, one additional faculty member (external examiner), and the student's IPN mentor, who will act as Chair of the exam.

The student's supervisor may attend an observer but does not participate in the exam. Please review the IPN candidacy exam guidelines posted on the IPN website before completing this form.
