DESCRIPTION: Master’s student and research assistant

NUMBER OF POSITIONS: 2

ROLE
As part of the GOLD Project (Projet OR - Optimiser les Rôles des acteurs du milieu éducatif pour mieux soutenir les élèves handicapés ou en difficultés d’adaptation ou d’apprentissage), professors Chantal Camden (Université de Sherbrooke) and Dana Anaby (McGill University) are each recruiting a student looking to complete a master’s degree starting in September 2017. The registration in masters programs needs to be completed in the coming months (January 31 for McGill, July 1 for Sherbrooke). Research assistant positions are also available from January 2017 for candidates interested in joining the research team before the start of their master’s degree.

PROFILE
• Team work
• Interpersonal and organisational communication
• Priority management
• Flexibility

REQUIREMENTS
• Bilingual (French and English)
• University degree in rehabilitation or in education
• Interested in completing a masters degree, starting in September 2017, at the Université de Sherbrooke or at McGill University
• Available for occasional between Montreal and Sherbrooke, and between schools within those regions
• Proficiency in Microsoft Office

ASSETS
• Experience working with children
• Experience working within a school setting
• Exemplary academic profile
• Experience working in research

SALARY
• A 5,000$/year masters scholarship is offered, with support for applying to other scholarships
• Research assistant salary according to relevant university standards

For those who are interested, please send your resume, your transcript and a letter of intent by January 13th, 2007 to: jade.berbari@usherbrooke.ca