

Dr. Anne Wong is Professor and Associate Chair of Education in the McMaster University Department of Anesthesia. She completed her anesthesia residency at McMaster University in 1991 followed by a pediatric anesthesia fellowship at the Hospital for Sick Children in 1992. She also holds a Master of Health Professional Education and PhD in Comparative and International Education from the Ontario Institute for Studies in Education of the University of Toronto. Her academic interests include the sociocultural contexts of medical education, global health education, faculty development, and gender in leadership. She has been involved in a number of interdisciplinary academic activities including: Assistant Dean, Program for Faculty Development at McMaster University, Director of the Faculty of Health Sciences Academic Leadership Program, Editorial Board Member for the Canadian Journal of Anesthesia, and teaching in Masters of Health Sciences Education and Global Health. She was recognised with the 2020 Canadian Association for Medical Education Certificate of Merit Award for her contributions to medical education.