Course Description

New Horizons in Medical Anthropology explores the concept of the “clinic” in medical and anthropological thought. Our starting point, however, is not the built environment but rather the various sets of relationships that form through shared or conflicting ideas about therapeutics and its delivery. The aim of the course is to map different domains where healing and suffering occur in order to disentangle the institutional-historical-lived circumstances found there. The readings and lectures invite students to consider sites that “clinical ethnography” might engage, including the body, home and its loss, memory, medical technologies, unseen forces, transcendence, sin, and madness.

Class Format

During the Winter 2021 semester, the course will be offered remotely. We will not try to reproduce the in-person classroom experience; instead we will work together to create a lively and productive atmosphere for thought and exchange online. We will meet over Zoom. Each week I will send links to the group. New Horizons is a lecture course. Two of our three weekly meetings will be lectures that draw from the readings that guide your coursework assignments. The remaining session will be a combination of guest speakers, various media, and discussion of questions by students submitted in advance or via chat during class.

The breakdown of our class time is as follows:

Mondays
9:35-9:40  Introduction, general housekeeping, outline of class
9:40-10:25  Lecture

Wednesdays
9:35-9:40  Introduction, general housekeeping, outline of class
9:40-10:25  Lecture
Fridays
9:35-9:40  Introduction, general housekeeping, outline of class
9:40-10:25 Media, pre-submitted questions, guest speakers, discussion

Coursework, Assessment, and Expectations

Graded coursework will consist of one (1) 1500-word mid-semester paper, one (1) 2000-word end-of-semester paper, and session attendance quizzes. A schedule of assignments is below.

Students enrolled in the course are expected to attend each class session having read the assigned chapters/articles for that session. Students are not expected to reproduce every detail from the readings or lectures in their assignments; however, it is essential that students read works critically and openly. The dual emphasis of the course is on creative and grounded engagement with the course materials as well as the concepts that orbit around and pass through these materials. If problems with the readings arise, students are encouraged to seek help during office hours.

While not a substitution for attendance, lectures will be recorded each week and made available to students who miss class. Attendance is expected, but I also recognize the complexities of our present moment. If a student misses more than two classes in a row, they are encouraged to meet with the instructor.

Late Assignment
Late assignments will be accepted only in the most extraordinary circumstances (determined by the instructor)

Incomplete Grade Policy
“Incomplete” will be issued only in the most extraordinary circumstances (determined by the instructor)

Grading Rubric

Written Assignments

A (Excellent)
The paper demonstrates excellent composition skills including a clear and thought-provoking thesis, appropriate and effective organization, lively and convincing supporting materials, effective diction and sentence skills, and perfect or near perfect mechanics including spelling and punctuation. The writing accomplishes the objectives of the assignment through synthesis, analysis, and attention to scholarly detail. The paper follows the formatting and length requirements. The paper is turned in on time.

B (Good)
The paper contains above average composition skills including a clear and thought-provoking thesis, although development, diction, and sentence style may suffer minor flaws. Shows careful and acceptable use of mechanics. The writing effectively accomplishes the goals of the assignment. The paper follows the formatting and length requirements. The paper is turned in on time.

C (Satisfactory)
The paper demonstrates competent composition skills including adequate development and organization, although the development of ideas may be trite, assumptions may be unsupported in more than one area, the thesis may not be original, and the diction and syntax may not be clear and effective. Minimally accomplishes the goals of the assignment. The paper fails to follow formatting and length requirements. The paper is turned in on time.

D (Poor)
Composition skills may be flawed in either the clarity of the thesis, the development, or organization. Diction, syntax, and mechanics may seriously compromise clarity. Minimally accomplishes the majority of the goals of the assignment. Fails to follow formatting and length requirements. The paper is turned in on time.

F (Fail)
Composition skills are flawed in two or more areas. Diction, syntax, and mechanics are excessively flawed. Fails to accomplish the goals of the assignment. Fails to follow formatting and length requirements. The paper is not turned in on time.

Grade Distribution

Mid-semester paper (45%); end-of-semester paper (50%); and attendance accessed via by attendance quizzes (5%)

Course Materials

The majority of book chapters, articles, and other materials will be available on MyCourses under the course “Content” tab. Books can be purchased at Le James Bookstore or online through one of Montreal’s many independent booksellers with contactless pick-up or home delivery.
