

Anthropology Proposal Defense Scheduling Checklist

(*Ph.D. students cannot schedule their Proposal Defense without completion of this list)

- I have submitted pdf copies of my research proposal and bibliographic essays to the Graduate Program Coordinator in the Department of Anthropology (one copy for each thesis committee member [3] and one copy for the department files [1]).
- I have ensured that any ethical considerations related to my project are satisfied.
- I understand that once my proposal has been successfully defended, my bibliographic essays and proposal will remain on file in the department and will be available for consultation/referral by faculty members and students.

Student Signature & Date: _____

Graduate Program Coordinator Signature & Date: _____

Once this checklist is completed, you may schedule your defense for any day at least four weeks subsequent to the above date. The date for your Proposal Defense must be determined in consultation with your Committee members to ensure their availability.

Congratulations and Good Luck!
