CIRM joins the movement

The Urban Living Challenge and La faim et ses moyens : des récits à l'action citoyenne have recently been selected from over 250 projects to join the Je fais Montréal community! Together with 53 new projects announced for the 4th anniversary of the movement, they will receive financial support and a unique platform to promote their activities.

Vivre ensemble: anniversary workshop
On December 5th, from 12:30 pm to 4:30 pm, join us to celebrate the first anniversary of the publication of the collective work Vivre ensemble à Montréal, Épreuves et convivialités. For the occasion, CIRM is holding a design workshop to begin developing the second phase of the publication. Come share ideas, research projects and initiatives that could turn into publications.

CIRM welcomes 7 new members

Since the summer of 2018, 7 researchers from Canadian and American universities have joined the Centre to take part in the interdisciplinary research carried out within its six major research-action axes: Imen Ben Jemia, Julie Burelle, Hossein Chavoshi, Natalie Doonan, Valérie-Anne Mahéo, Enrique Pato and Amanda Ricci have joined CIRM's 54 active members.

2018–2019 Resident Scholars

We are proud to welcome three resident scholars for the academic year 2018-2019: Claude Fortin, Imen Ben Jemia and Simon Ng. These emerging researchers will be pursuing their interdisciplinary research on Montréal and contributing to the activities of the Centre throughout the year. Check out their research profiles!

Call for information

In order to update the information displayed on the CIRM website, we invite our members to share the projects and research teams with which they are associated, as well as their recent publications (since 2017), and a high resolution royalty-free profile photo, with a minimal size of 300 x 300 pixels.
