

We're thrilled to be able to present the upcoming undergraduate and graduate recitals from April 18 – May 29, 2021 via webcast.

Schulich students, faculty, and staff have been preparing for months to share their work. Please join us in celebrating their talent and dedication.

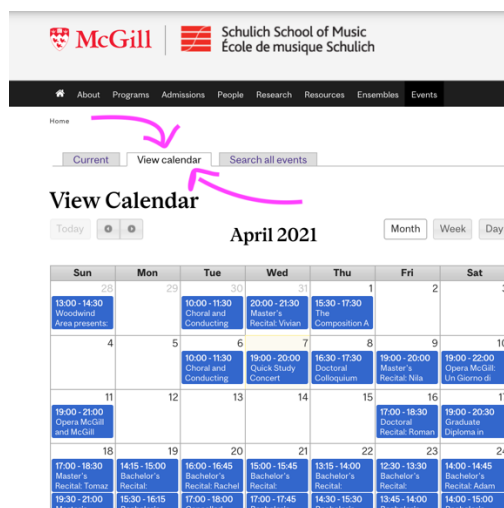

How to make sure you don't miss a moment? Read on!

START HERE

To find events, go to our Events Calendar: www.mcgill.ca/music/events

 Pro Tip: To view more, you can also click on the second tab to View Calendar

 Pro tip: When looking at the View Calendar tab, hover over the square (entry) to find the event you're looking for.

 Pro tip: In the View Calendar tab, if you prefer exploring by week or by day, be sure to scroll down to find all the afternoon and evening recitals.

When you've found what you're looking for, click on the square (in the View Calendar tab) or on "view more" in list mode (Current tab) to access the event details.

👉 I'm in the event details. Now what?

 Pro tip: you can click on "add to calendar" and import the event directly into your personal calendar!

Closer to the recital date, you'll find the program in the event details, and you can download it before the performance.

The webcasts will appear on YouTube. The Schulich School of Music has three concert channels: Pollack Hall, Tanna Schulich Hall, and Redpath Hall.

These channels have been created especially for exams and recitals.

There's a link in the event details for every recital that's being webcast. Click there and you'll be taken right to the YouTube page!

You'll land on the channel that's specific to a particular hall. But we've made sure to give you access to the other ones in case you took a wrong turn somewhere. 😊

📱 Pro Tip: If you're used to going to the Schulich YouTube channel (bit.ly/SchulichWebcasts), don't worry! You can access the other hall channels from there. Just go to the channel of the hall you're looking for.

Don't know or can't remember what hall the recital is in? Check back on the Events Calendar.

The recital being webcast will appear automatically on the channel home page when it goes live. We aim to have our recitals all start on time, so be sure to tune in and start the webcast a few minutes before!

🔔 Pro Tip: Subscribe to the channel and sign up to get notifications for when every event goes live on that channel.

Troubleshooting and FAQs

I'm on the right YouTube Page, and it's 10 minutes before the recital, but I don't see any video. Should I be worried?

The live feed will only start a couple of minutes before the recital start time, often without sound. If it's one minute before the recital, and you still don't see anything appear, we suggest refreshing your page.

Pro Tip: When in doubt, refresh! It may look different depending on what browser you use (Safari, Chrome, Edge, or Firefox), but Ctrl or Command plus R on your keyboard should do the trick!

Once the music starts, sit back and enjoy!

A reminder that the recitals are live, which means that once it's over, the feed is removed, and it will no longer be available online.

I came to the recital a couple of minutes late, but it looks like everything is just beginning. How do I know if the recital started late too?

Check for the word "LIVE" and a red circle at the left-hand bottom of the video. This lets you know if you're watching the live feed. If something like this appears "- 2:31" on the left side of "LIVE", that's an indicator that you're 2 minutes and 31 seconds behind the live feed. Just click on the word LIVE and you'll catch right up.

But I want to see the whole recital – do I have to click "LIVE"?

No, you're not obligated, but you may miss the end of the recital, as the feed is removed once the concert is over.

Can I let someone know that I'm at their recital?

By all means – but you'll have to reach out to them directly. The live chat and comments functions will be unavailable for individual recitals.

How can I share my congratulations to the performers or my encouragement with other students?

Please send your messages to publicity.music@mcgill.ca. We're creating a space where those students entering the building for their recitals and exams will be able to read the messages.
