Empowering Career and Leadership Development for Women Course

Designed to support ICAO's mandate to enhance gender equality in aviation and to raise awareness about the importance of women's career advancement to aviation leadership and technical roles, this practical course aims to equip women in aviation with a carefully curated set of competencies that are necessary to navigate current organizational systems, effectively manage careers, and lead oneself and others toward powerful and positive outcomes.

This course was developed and will be facilitated by seasoned McGill faculty and enriched by women leaders who will serve as guest speakers and share their personal experiences and life lessons.

Be among the first to participate in this unique learning initiative and develop your personalized action plan for success!
