

Operations Management Research Energy Operations

This research program is focused on the management and operations of conventional and alternative energy assets, including but not limited to oil, natural gas, biofuel, photovoltaic, wind, and storage/transmission facilities. The primary objective is to provide salient insights and practical strategies for more effective and efficient energy assets management in both public and private sectors.