GMSCM is a double-degree and part-time study program. GMSCM students are awarded an MBA degree by Zhejiang University and a Master in Management degree by McGill University after successfully completing all courses and thesis required.

McGill and Zhejiang, two international renowned academic institutions, have integrated their best faculty resources and built up a world class teaching and management team. All courses are taught in English. More than 50% of the courses are delivered by professors from McGill University coming to Hangzhou.

The GMSCM students have abundant working experience (more than seven years on average) in operations-related industries such as manufacturing, services, logistics and supply chain. Graduates from the GMSCM program have access to the vast alumni network and services provided by both universities such as networking events, career development, internships, etc.

The electives in Zhejiang University are open to GMSCM students. An optional overseas module and one-term exchange program at the McGill University campus in Montreal is also available.
