Course objectives

- To cover the basics of economic theory and policy at the level of the whole economy - the macroeconomic level (e.g. national income, economic growth, employment/unemployment, prices & inflation, exchange rates, monetary and fiscal policy). It is aimed at students, not currently specializing in economics at the majors or honors level.
- To provide a critical assessment of the different economic policy measures and packages put forward nationally and internationally, in order to deal with such issues and problems.

Course evaluation

Midterm examination: 30% (1 hour)

Final examination: 70% (3 hours)

I anticipate that the exams will be multiple-choice, though I reserve the right to include some short-answer questions at my discretion. If your individual performance on the final is better than on the midterm the weights will be changed from '30% / 70%' to '20% / 80%'. They are closed book examinations - no texts, notes, cell phones or electronic memory devices allowed.

If you miss the mid-term, for justifiable reasons, (as determined by the instructor and subject to written confirmation acceptable to the instructor), there are two options. You can have the final count as 100% of the course, OR you can sit for a deferred mid-term during the regular deferred exam period in McGill, in August 2024.

Students missing the mid-term without justifiable reasons approved by the instructor AND / OR students not clarifying their chosen option between a deferred midterm and a 100% final before the date of the final exam, will receive a grade of 'zero' on the midterm and will not be eligible for a deferred mid-term.

Critical dates

January 4th: beginning of course

February 28th: midterm examination (no lecture on this date)

March 4th – March 8th: Reading Week

April 12th: end of course

Teaching Assistants

T.A.s will hold weekly conferences (small-group seminars) to help you understand assigned questions on the 'assignments. The questions in the assignments and basic answer guides are posted each week on MyCourses. The conferences are voluntary – but you are strongly advised to attend. Conference times and locations, as well as your T.A.'s office hours, will be posted on MyCourses shortly after the onset of semester.
