Clinic Description

The McGill Psychoeducational and Counselling Clinic (MPCC) is a teaching and training unit of the Department of Educational and Counselling Psychology. The Clinic offers services to the community, facilitates professional training in Educational and Counselling Psychology, and supports related research. Services are offered to children, adolescents, and adults, by Masters and Doctoral students under the supervision of the faculty in the Department. Every effort is made to provide the highest quality of services and when required, to provide appropriate referrals to other resources.

Fees

We strive to make our services accessible for everyone and as such, our fees are below standard rates in the community. Fees are set between $100 - $1800 for a complete psychoeducational assessment. Filling out a fee form and sending in a copy of your last year's Income Tax Assessment will allow us to determine what is appropriate for you to pay. Fees are paid in two installments of ½ the determined fee on site via credit or debit card only. The first installment is paid at the first testing session and the last installment is paid at the last testing session. Trainees are not permitted to continue seeing clients if the fees are not paid when due.

Cancellation policy

If it is necessary to cancel an appointment, clients are required to provide 24 hours' notice. If 24 hours is not provided, the client will be charged the full session fee. This cancellation fee is required to be paid prior to the client's next appointment at the Clinic. This cancellation policy applies to both counselling and assessment services.

Tardiness

Clients who are late will be charged the full session fee and the appointment will end at the scheduled time.

Client records

All client files are saved on McGill University systems and kept confidential. Access to records is available only to authorized Trainees, faculty and staff members of the Clinic. Files are deleted five years after the last client contact. All reports are written and provided in English.

Audio/video recordings

Audio or video recordings of a session are made for the purpose of training. As part of ongoing supervision, video and audio recordings are periodically reviewed by faculty, or graduate students enrolled in the School and Applied Child Psychology program. Video/audio materials are maintained as part of the client's Clinic file, and like written reports, cannot be released without the client's written consent. Audio/video recordings are destroyed after supervision or when the clinical services have ended, and the file is closed. It is strictly forbidden for a client to tape or record a session with a trainee and could result in the termination of services.

Teaching/supervision of clinical services and trainees

Client files may be reviewed in the context of individual or group supervision for the education and training of our students. When client information is shared in the context of group clinical supervision, all efforts are made to protect the identity of the client. The clinical supervisor and other trainees may interact with the client or observe sessions between the client and the trainee named on page 1 for training/learning purposes.

Supervisors

All trainees are supervised by a licensed psychologist. If you wish to speak to the trainee's supervisor, please feel free to mention it to your trainee.

Emergency services

Since all our services are by appointment only, availability of staff varies from day to day. The Clinic is not equipped or staffed to handle emergencies. In the event of an emergency, call your CLSC or go to the emergency room of your local hospital.

Confidentiality

All client information is kept strictly confidential. No information will be communicated to a third party without your permission. When records (i.e., reports) are requested by a third party (e.g., school, physician, insurance), your written authorization is required before any information can be released.

When records (i.e., reports) are requested by a third party (e.g., school, doctor, insurance), your written authorization is required before any information can be released.

Please note: There are limits to confidentiality determined by the law. An example of this is if a client discloses information that suggests imminent harm to self or another individual. Also, any information regarding abuse/neglect, etc., of a minor, must be by law reported to the DPJ (child protection services). This does not include a victim of child abuse that has reached the age of majority disclosing past abuse unless there is still a minor at risk. Confidentiality also does not apply if the law demands that information from a client file be disclosed (e.g., in the case of a criminal investigation).

In-clinic therapy: If you are being seen in the Psychoeducational Clinic, the trainee will provide you with McGill Covid regulations. However, if you feel that they are not enough for you, please feel free to discuss with your trainee what measures you would like in place to feel safe.

Telepsychology

Some sessions may be conducted using telepsychology. By consenting to telepsychology services, you agree that all options besides telepsychology have been presented to you (i.e., deferring services to another time, retracting your request for service being seen only in the clinic, etc.). There are certain limitations to this practice that need to be understood and it is important to take certain steps to address these limitations. Thus, before beginning a follow-up in telepsychology, the trainee will agree with you on the process to be followed.

The trainee will take any necessary measures to ensure the confidentiality of telepsychology meetings. Although every measure is taken to destroy all traces of telepsychology encounters from computers (e.g., erasing browser history; deleting videos from IT systems), the type of software used cannot guarantee absolute confidentiality and breaches of confidentiality beyond the trainee's control are possible. You must also make certain that you take the necessary measures to ensure the confidentiality of your information with regard to the software used on your computer and your computer data management. It is important to choose a place where you will not be disturbed by other people, (e.g., noise or any other distracting elements) for the duration of the meeting. It is important to use a computer or electronic device that ensures your privacy when possible (personal & non-public device).

For more information about telepsychology, you can consult the document from the Ordre des psychologues du Québec (OPQ) entitled: Guide de pratique concernant l'exercice de la télépsychologie, which the trainee can give you on request or which you can find on the OPQ website. E-mail services (e.g., Gmail, Hotmail, Yahoo, etc.) cannot guarantee the confidentiality of your communications. Thus, if you communicate with the psychologist by e-mail, you consent to the fact that the confidentiality of the information transmitted may be compromised. However, you should know that the psychologist will use all possible means within his reach to ensure the protection of the information you transmit.

The OPQ requires that all psychologists/clinics make the following three documents available to all persons receiving any form of therapy and/or assessment:

- Code of Ethics of Psychologists: <http://legisquebec.gouv.qc.ca/en/ShowDoc/cr/C-26,%20r.%20212/>
- Account conciliation: <https://www.ordrepsy.qc.ca/english/account-conciliation>
- Regulation respecting the keeping of records and consulting-rooms by psychologists: <http://legisquebec.gouv.qc.ca/en/ShowDoc/cr/C-26,%20r.%20221%20/>

Post-therapy/assessment requests

Any request made after the final meeting with the client or representative of the client, which requires re-opening of the file will incur an administrative fee. This fee will be representative of the time required in accessing the information and transmitting it to the client or their representative. The fee will be based on $80/hour, which must be paid prior to the transfer. Also, because our trainees move on at the end of the academic term, there is a one-year limit for requests for documents to be filled out and signed by a supervising psychologist. This includes requests for school accommodation forms and/or Federal or Provincial tax credit forms. After the one year (since date of feedback), clients or representatives of clients are encouraged to have documentation completed by their General Practitioner, Pediatrician, or through their local CLSC.
