McGill Library – Your work can be made available to the McGill community and members of the public over McGill's eScholarship repository, with the sponsorship of your supervisor, and your authorization. If you wish to do so, upon the completion of your Honours research, please follow the steps provided on the Bieler School's website, or ask the Program Adviser for further information.

Research Project Title --

Project Description (approx. 50 - 100 words) --

Please describe the research aims and the research methodology to be used, as well as the location where the study will take place. Note whether there will be a requirement for ethical review statement(s), or not.

Relevance of Research Project to Student's Domain (approx. 50 - 100 words) --

Provide a brief statement of the relationship of this research project to your Domain (or to the main areas of focus within your BA&Sc degree if applicable). Be as specific as possible.

Method of Evaluation and Deadlines ** --

Please provide a breakdown of the grading system to be used (being as specific as possible about the evaluation criteria and weights) as well as the deadlines for each component. There must be more than one component to the grade (ie. the final report cannot be worth 100%).

** Honours students are expected to present their research and findings at the Bieler School of Environment's Fall or Spring Honours Symposium. Although an important part of the Honours program, this oral presentation is not evaluated, and is not necessarily incorporated into the student's final grade.

In-progress Honours students are expected to attend the Symposiums that take place throughout the course of their program.

** ENVR grade submissions follow Faculty of Science deadlines. Supervisors submit the student's grade on Minerva.
