

MCGILL FAMILY MEDICINE RESEARCH SEMINARS

“Patient Engagement in Primary Health Care Research: Practical Applications and Challenges”

Anne Marie Chomat MD PhD MPH

Anne Marie is a post-doctoral Health Systems Impact Fellow in PRAM, in the Department of Family Medicine. Her current transdisciplinary research, funded by Grand Challenges Canada, a GCC Transition-to-Scale award, and a Gates Grand Challenges Explorations, addresses maternal and child outcomes of a community-based, participatory group psychosocial intervention with Maya women, men, youth and elders in the Western Highlands of Guatemala. She leads the McGill’s researcher-patient dyad funded by RUIS in Quebec and she convenes the McGill Patient Engagement Network involving over a dozen clinical and research teams across the University. She will outline current controversies in patient engagement and address some major challenges of this field, grounded with case examples. Her practical and pragmatic approach makes patient engagement accessible for clinicians and researchers alike..

Thursday October 18, 2018
From 12:30-2:00 p.m.
Department of Family Medicine
5858 ch. de la Côte-des-Neiges, 3rd floor, suite 300

BRING YOUR LUNCH!

There is no parking on site and parking is limited in the area.
Taxis and public transport are advised.

Cannot make the seminar physically, but would like to attend? Please join via webinar here.
(Note: Students from FMED 504 are expected to attend)

McGill

Department of
Family Medicine | Département de
médecine de famille