

MCGILL FAMILY MEDICINE RESEARCH SEMINARS

“PATIENT ENGAGEMENT IN AN INDIGENOUS CONTEXT”

Alex McComber

Kanien’keha:ka is from Kahnawake Territory on the St. Lawrence River. His work has involved community based participatory research around diabetes prevention and health promotion with KSDPP since 1994, more specifically around personal empowerment, community mobilization & decolonization. These experiences are being applied to his work with patient participation as equal partners in diabetes research through SPOR.

Thursday September 7, 2017

From 12:30-2:00 p.m.

Department of Family Medicine

5858 ch. de la Côte-des-Neiges, 3rd floor, suite 300

BRING YOUR LUNCH! There will be light refreshments.
There is no parking on site and parking is limited in the area.
Taxis and public transport are advised.

Cannot make the seminar physically, but wish to attend? Please join the webinar here.
(Note: Students from FMED 504 are expected to attend)

McGill

Department of Family Medicine

Département de médecine de famille