

MCGILL FAMILY MEDICINE RESEARCH SEMINARS

“METHODOLOGICAL AND PRACTICAL ISSUES IN CONDUCTING TRIALS OF HEALTH SERVICES IN FAMILY PRACTICE”

Dr. Nicholas Zwar

Dr. Nicholas Zwar MBBS, MPH, PhD is Professor of General Practice, School of Public Health and Community Medicine, UNSW Australia. He is also a director of the UNSW Research Centre for Primary Health Care and Equity. He has substantial research experience in the areas of health systems research on prevention and management of chronic illness in the primary care context. Nick is chief investigator on a portfolio of projects on chronic respiratory disease as well as collaborating on projects focused on teamwork in family practice, smoking cessation, hypertension, cardiovascular disease, stroke and diabetes.

Thursday October 15, 2015
From 12:00-1:30 p.m.
Department of Family Medicine
5858 ch. de la Côte-des-Neiges, 3rd floor, suite 300

BRING YOUR LUNCH! There will be light refreshments.

There is no parking on site and parking is limited in the area. Taxis and public transport are advised.

Cannot make the seminar physically, but would like to attend? Please register for the webinar here.

(Note: Students from FMED 504 are expected to attend)

McGill

Department of Family Medicine

Département de médecine de famille