Negative and positive discrimination in the UN Disability Convention

Frédéric Mégret
Assistant Professor of Law, McGill University
Canada Research Chair on the Law of Human Rights and Legal Pluralism

April 3: 4:30-6:00
IHSP Conference Room, Charles Meredith House
1130 Pine Avenue West

This event is open to all and does not require registration.
Information/Renseignements: jennifer.proudfoot@mcgill.ca
514-398-8683

Frédéric Mégret is an Assistant Professor of Law, the Canada Research Chair on the Law of Human Rights and Legal Pluralism and the Director of the McGill Clinic for the Sierra Leone Special Court. Before joining the University of McGill, Professor Mégret was an Assistant Professor at the Faculty of Law of the University of Toronto. Previously, he was a Boulton fellow at McGill University and a research associate at the European University Institute in Florence. In the past, he has worked for the International Committee of the Red Cross, assisted the defense counsel of one of the accused before the International Criminal Tribunal for Rwanda, and was a member of the French delegation at the Rome conference that created the International Criminal Court. Professor Mégret has also advised the Liberian government on the design of a human rights vetting procedure for its armed forces.

He is currently engaged in several research projects on international criminal justice, the tradition of civil disobedience and its role for international law, as well as the "pluralisation" of international human rights law.