12:30-1:30 EDT

Insights into SARS-CoV-2 Transmission and Control

Justin Lessler

Associate Professor, Johns Hopkins
Bloomberg School of Public Health

This talk will cover insights into SARS-CoV-2 transmission, severity and control gleaned from the analysis of data collected as part of the public health response in locations ranging from China, to Switzerland, to the United States. It will examine the insights into disease transmission we have inferred from our research, as well as what we know about what works for control.

Talk co-hosted by the Department of Epidemiology, Biostatistics and Occupational Health.
