The Elaine Kilabuk Inuit and Indigenous Health Professions Student Award

This new scholarship is intended to help support the training of an Inuit student from Nunavut in medicine at McGill. Other Indigenous health professions students may be eligible for this scholarship per the criteria below. The award is named after Dr. Elaine Kilabuk, an Inuk medical graduate from Nunavut. The scholarship will be awarded to a student according to the following ranked criteria:

1. An Inuit student from Nunavut in Medicine or Med-P
2. An Inuit student from anywhere else in Canada in Medicine or Med-P
3. An Indigenous student in Medicine or Med-P
4. An Indigenous student in the Faculty of Dentistry, Faculty of Medicine (medicine, nursing, PT/OT, CSD), School of Human Nutrition or the School of Social Work.
5. If there are no Indigenous students in any of these schools then the bursary may be given to a non-Indigenous student in the Faculty of Medicine

NOTE For 2018-2019, only students who have completed one year of studies in their program are eligible for this award therefore students in their first year of studies are not eligible.

For the purposes of this scholarship, Indigenous is defined as:
- Registered Inuit,
- Status First Nations or
- Métis person registered with one of the five provincial Métis organizations recognized by the Métis National Council (Métis Nation of Ontario, Manitoba Métis Federation, Métis Nation of Saskatchewan, Métis Nation of Alberta, Métis Nation BC)

Application Procedure:
Please send the following documents to indigenous.health@mcgill.ca :
- Cover letter telling us about yourself including your background, which school or faculty you are in and your long term goals. Feel free to add any additional information you feel is important (i.e. financial need, academic standing, desire to work with Indigenous peoples etc.).
- CV
- Documents confirming your Indigenous identity (copy of status card, beneficiary letter or card from your Métis organization)

Amount: approx. $4800 (varies year to year)
Deadline: October 26, 2018 at 5 pm