Course description:
This survey provides an overview of Spanish literature and culture, from the late 18th- to the 21st-centuries. It focuses on aesthetic movements, genres, and topics that have punctuated Spanish culture in the modern and contemporary eras, since the onset of the Enlightenment. Students will have the opportunity to learn about and examine many ‘isms’ (Romanticism, realism, modernism, postmodernism, etc.) and critical topics (the body, gender, sexuality, nationhood, family, the canon, crisis, counterculture, and avant-gardes) through a range of literary and visual cultural forms (prose, poetry, theater, cinema, and visual cultures). Particular attention will be paid to the close reading of texts, interrelationship between the thematic and formal aspects of said texts, and key cultural terms and concepts that will provide students with language and critical frameworks to analyze, speak, and write about Spanish cultural production. Taught in Spanish.

Prerequisite: Prerequisite: successful completion of HISP 219 or CEGEP course 607-401; Corequisite: HISP 220D1/D2, or equivalent.

Virtual Meeting Times and Locations:
Fully virtual and flexible (“asynchronous”) 20 to 30-minute weekly lectures will be posted to myCourses, with optional drop-in discussion sessions on Wednesdays, 10:05am-10:35am EST. The Zoom link for discussion sessions will be posted on MyCourses.

Mode of Delivery
To accommodate students working in different time zones, this course will be offered with an entirely flexible and asynchronous schedule. This means that there will be no required fixed class activities or meetings. One 20-30-minute weekly lecture will be recorded and posted to myCourses by or at the start of each week. Despite the remote and flexible nature of the course, students will have opportunities to participate and work with partners or in small groups via discussion boards on myCourses, the weekly drop-in discussion sessions, and group projects and presentations.

On Wednesdays at 10:05am EST, I will hold 30-minute drop-in discussion sessions via Zoom for students who have questions about each week’s materials. Students with questions about the weekly materials who are unable to attend the Q&A and discussion session, should post their questions and comments to the Discussions page in myCourses. Students are encouraged to collaborate and respond to their fellow students’ questions, both during the drop-in sessions and via the Discussions board.

I remind everyone of their responsibility in ensuring that this video and associated material are not reproduced or placed in the public domain. This means that each of you can use it for your educational (and research) purposes, but you cannot allow others to use it by putting it up on the Internet or by giving it or selling it to others who may also copy it and make it available. Please refer to McGill’s Guidelines for Instructors and Students on Remote Teaching and Learning for further information. Thank you very much for your cooperation.

Materials and Access:
All assigned materials will be posted on myCourses in their respective weekly Module in the “Content” section of our myCourses page, and/or be available for streaming or download via McGill library services. In very rare cases, you may need to rent a film iTunes or Google Play.

Evaluation:

30% Keyword Videos (3) — a keyword video is a short, DIY video production that you will create in pre-established groups of 4-6 students using easily available digital tools or apps, smart phones and/or webcams. The keyword video should involve a critical discussion, presentation, or performance about a ‘key’ word that is relevant to the course. Your keyword videos should not be merely descriptive—they should also have critical/analytical elements. This means that you will not just define the assigned keyword, you will also question it, examine how it plays out in the Spanish cultural texts we are studying in the course, and relates to elements such as form, theme, medium, voice, rhetoric and rhetorical devices, the nation, gender and sexuality, etc.

Keyword videos originated as a feminist teaching practice by FemTechNet.

Learning Objectives for Keyword videos:
• Learn hands-on, applied skills in making short videos
• Make culture-related theoretical terms, ideas, and arguments approachable, accessible, and/or available in new formats, vernaculars, and to new audiences
• Connect cultural theories and practices along key themes
• Virtually present your ideas to others in the course
• Participate actively and with increased sophistication through the use of online tools (including social media if you so choose)
• See examples of keyword videos here (note that, for this course, your videos do not have to directly relate to feminism):

20%: Midterm partner assignment: over a two-week period, you will listen to the six episodes of the podcast De eso no se habla (https://deesonosehabla.com/) and, with a partner of your choice, write a 750-1000-word reaction paper about the series, focusing on what personally struck you and your partner about it. This assignment can take the form of a narrative essay, a cultural critique for a magazine, or a critical academic study of the series (formally and thematically). It can even be a commentary on the use of an audial medium (the podcast) to tell stories that have long been silenced. Late submissions: 5% of assignment grade/day.

50%: Final Paper/Ensayo final: You will write a final, analytical essay that demonstrates your ability to synthesize ideas and close-read texts as well as your knowledge of key terms, concepts, and aesthetic movements studied in the course. The essay topic is open but must focus on 2 texts (at least 1 of which must have been studied after the midterm exam) and must examine the thematic and formal aspects, and include close reading, of your chosen texts in the service of a single argument. You should also – at least minimally - incorporate Voyant Tools, which you will be taught to use early in the semester, into your essay’s methodology. Essay length: 7-8 pages plus title page and bibliography, double-spaced, 1-inch margins, 12 pt. Times Roman font), due before the end of our last class of the semester. Late penalty: 5% per day for late essay submissions, up to 3 days. After 3 days, student will receive a grade of 0 for the assignment.

Academic integrity
a. Per McGill’s Code of Student Conduct and Disciplinary Procedures, “[t]he integrity of University academic life and of the degrees the University confers is dependent upon the honesty, integrity and soundness of the teacher-student learning relationship and, as well, that of the assessment process.” Note that student obligation measures under the heading “C. Academic Offences” in the Code of Student Conduct and Disciplinary Procedures (i.e., avoiding plagiarism or cheating) and associated disciplinary measures apply as much during remotely-delivered exams and evaluations as exams and other evaluations conducted in person on McGill premises.

b. Instructors use multiple modes of communication to share their pedagogical materials with students. The slides, video recordings, lecture notes, etc. remain the instructors’ intellectual property. You may therefore use these only for your own learning (and research, with proper referencing/citation) ends. You are not permitted to disseminate or share these materials; doing so may violate the instructor’s intellectual property rights and could be cause for disciplinary action.

Class security
a. Per the Policy on the Responsible Use of McGill’s Information Technology Resources, do not share your login or password information. Keeping this information confidential minimizes the risk of harassment and intrusion into your classes by unauthorized and ill-intended users, and ensures that you remain compliant with University policy.

b. McGill is taking all reasonable measures to ensure that class recordings are accessible only to students registered in the course. Therefore, students need to log in to myCourses to access the recordings.

c. In addition to the recording of your image and voice, your name (or preferred name) may be displayed on screen, and your instructor may call your name during class time. Therefore, this personal information will be disclosed to classmates, whether during the class session or in viewing the recording. By remaining in classes that are being recorded, you accept that personal information of this kind may be disclosed to others, whether during fixed (synchronous) class time or in viewing the recording.

Remote Learning Resources
Since learning remotely is a new skill that we all have to acquire, I would encourage you to look at the resources that McGill’s Teaching and Learning Services compiled:
https://www.mcgill.ca/tls/students/remote-learning-resources
Consider looking at all the tips, particularly the following points:

- 5 Strategies for Success
- Study Tactics
- Learning Strategies Inventory
- Learning with Zoom

Other Remarks:
As the instructor of this course, I endeavor to provide an inclusive learning environment. However, if you experience barriers to learning in this course, do not hesitate to discuss them with me and the Office for Students with Disabilities, 514- 398-6009.

PLEASE NOTE: Some of the texts, images, and films treated in this course treat contain shocking and graphic content, coarse language, sexual situations, nudity, and violence, including rape. Please consider this before registering for the course.
