

GRADUATE STUDIES IN LAW

WHY LAW AT MCGILL?

McGill University's Faculty of Law provides world-class graduate programs, recognizing that law is embedded in culture, values, economies, and people. It is no surprise, therefore, that each year we welcome dozens of bright legal minds from around the world to become members of our vibrant community. We can offer you: a distinct approach to law as a pluralistic, social, and interactive discipline; cutting-edge research opportunities;

a broad range of research networks; generous funding opportunities; practical teaching training and mentorship; a strong sense of community and collegiality; and connections that last a lifetime.

Degrees offered

Master of Laws (LLM) | Doctor of Civil Law (DCL) | Graduate Certificate (GC)

Research areas

Comparative Law; Public Law; Private Law; Private and Public International Law; Air and Space; Human Rights; Intellectual Property; Health; Criminal; Humanitarian Law; Children and the Law; Religion and the Law; LGBT rights; Constitutional; Environment; Family; Indigenous Peoples' Law; Aboriginal Law; Arbitration; Tax; Legal Theory; Trade; Labour

Careers

Academia; private practice; in-house counsel; government; intergovernmental organizations; judicial clerkships; international relations; non-profit work; legal publishing; and many others!

Contact us

Graduate Programs in Law
New Chancellor Day Hall
3644 Peel Street, room 406
Montreal, Quebec
H3A 1W9

514-398-6635
grad.law@mcgill.ca

McGill

Faculty of Law

<https://www.mcgill.ca/law/grad-studies>

Application deadline

September entry only: December 20 (domestic and international)

Admission requirements

DCL and LLM: Candidates for admission to our graduate law programs must possess a Bachelor of Laws degree or an equivalent law degree from an accredited university with a cumulative grade point average of 3.0/4.0, or its equivalent (upper second class). DCL applicants must also possess a Master of Laws.

GC: Please contact us for detailed requirements.

Program requirements

LLM Thesis: coursework and 30,000-word thesis; LLM Non-Thesis: coursework and 15,000-word research project

DCL: coursework, comprehensive exam, and thesis of up to 400 pages or 100,000 words

GC: 15 credits of coursework

McGill

Our 10 faculties and 12 professional schools offer more than 300 programs to some 40,000 graduate, undergraduate, and continuing studies students.

McGill University's Faculty of Law is ranked as the 14th best school to study law worldwide (Times Higher Education 2019).