FOX-DECENT, EvanBooks & Monographs:

Fiduciaries of Humanity: How International Law Constitutes Authority (with Evan Criddle) (New York: OUP, in press 2016). The book has eight chapters and runs over 183,000 words. I spent most of 2015 writing the final lengthy chapter (~105 pages), “International Institutions as Fiduciaries of Humanity,” and revising the manuscript as a whole to put it in final form. While the book is not scheduled to be released until August of 2016, it was a massive, multi-year endeavour. Much of 2012 and 2013, and most of 2014 and 2015 were dedicated to drafting and revising this monograph.

Articles in Refereed Journals (Paper or Electronic):

“Sovereignty as Trusteeship and Indigenous Peoples” (2015) 16 Theoretical Inquiries in Law: 507-533 (with Ian Dahlman).

Book Chapters:

Note: This piece was supposed to be published in the fall of 2015, but for unexplained reasons the book’s launch was delayed until January of 2016. I have five other pieces, and the monograph above, scheduled to be published in 2016. If possible and equitable to others, I would ask to be credited for “Constitutional Legitimacy Unbound” this year, and undertake to note in my Annual Report next year that I have been so credited.
