SECTION I

1. Research and Publications

Research librarians are partnering more often with teaching faculty in collaborative research projects, providing support to students and scholars whose research work depends on the collections available in the library and the specialized expertise of librarians. Examples of such activities at McGill are:

- Toward better outcomes for children and youth receiving residential services in Ontario: A synthesis review of attachment-based interventions. 2011. (Freymond, N., Stoddard, J., Cull, J., McLeod, K., Piscitelli, A., Westheus, A., Morgenshtern, M., Stephenson, C., & Kloda, L.).
Funded by the Ontario Ministry of Children and Youth Services Strategic Research Fund. ($76,060).
- What are the key processes associated with outcomes of Participatory Research with Health Organizations (PRO). A participatory knowledge synthesis. 2011. (Henderson, J. et al).
Funded by the Canadian Institutes of Health research (CIHR) ($99,992).
- Digging into Data Challenge. 2011. (Cumming, J., Principal Investigator, Leive, C.)
Funded by the Social Sciences and Humanities Research Council (SSHRC) ($125,000.00)

2. Teaching and Learning

The raison d'être of the McGill Library is to provide excellent collections, and to hire and train the best staff members to support the teaching, learning and research needs of the University community of teachers, learners and scholars.

The Library continued to expand the MyResearch program for graduate students across all disciplines. Liaison librarians are embedded in departments and provide information literacy classes throughout the year and intensively during the fall and winter orientation programs. The Humanities and Social Sciences librarians introduced a tailored MyArtsResearch program for Arts Undergraduates in 2011. A successful iPad lending project was launched and will be further expanded in the Humanities and Social Sciences Library.

In 2011, the Library focused on securing journal backfile packages, research databases and e-books to support the University's teaching, learning and research priorities. Several major acquisitions included material published by ProQuest to date, and for the next five years. A similar arrangement was made with Gale Publishing. The Library joined the HathiTrust, a resource of over 10,000,000 e-books, e-journals and other resources digitized in the Google project from major library collections including those from the University of Michigan and Columbia University.

The 13 branches of the McGill Library welcomed over 5 million visitors in 2011.

3. Involvement in the Community

The Library played a significant role in McGill's 190th anniversary, launching the McGill Yearbooks digital collection site in October 2011. A lunch and learn series, "190 Years Young: McGill and its History" was hosted by Christopher Lyons, Osler Library of the History of Medicine and Professor Peter McNally, School of Information Studies. The Education Library offered story hours to children who attend Centre de la Petite Enfance de McGill (CPE). Work continued on the Inventaire des imprimés anciens au Québec (IMAQ) project, which is charged with cataloguing all pre-1800 books held in Quebec. McGill Library's extensive holdings of 16th century imprints in Greek, Latin and French were a major contribution. The Library, in collaboration with members of the Faculty of Medicine's Physicianship undergraduate medical programme, established the Osler Fellows' Library, a collection of books selected by participating physicians as inspirational reading for students. The Library welcomed students from l'École de bibliothéconomie et des Sciences de l'information from the Université de Montréal, librarians from Kyoto University Library and collaborated with Concordia University on designing an e-Learning project. The Library has loaned several valuable items to organizations outside of the University for use in academic and non-academic exhibitions (Appendix A).

4. Partnerships

The Library collaborates with library partners, nationally and internationally, including the Conférence des recteurs et des principaux des universités du Québec (CREPUQ), the Canadian Association of Research Libraries (CARL), the Association of Research Libraries (ARL), Bibliothèque et archives nationales du Québec (BaNQ) and HathiTrust. The Library was the first Canadian University Library to join the HathiTrust, a partnership of major research institutions which works to ensure that the cultural record is preserved and accessible in the future through digitization.

5. Milestones

The year began with the arrival of the new Trenholme Dean of Libraries, Dr. C. Colleen Cook, Ph.D. from Texas A&M University. The Library appointed four new tenure track assistant librarians; three assistant librarians were granted tenure and promoted to associate librarian, and 13 assistant librarians were reappointed for an additional term. The Library also hired two programmer/analysts, two documentation technicians, one senior library clerk, one senior human resources advisor and one communications officer. Two assistant librarians, two associate librarians and one document technician retired. Eight staff members resigned. The Howard Ross Management Library staff and collection were successfully merged into the Humanities and Social Sciences Library with minimal disruption to clientele or personnel (Appendix B).

The unusually large reappointment and tenure cohort is a direct result of the 2007 revision of the "Regulations Relating to the Employment of Librarian Staff." A Librarians' Council was established in 2011 and excellent progress made in addressing outstanding concerns of academic staff following a series of collegial discussions throughout 2010 and 2011.

Phase I of the Safdie Archive Re-Organization Project was completed. The reorganization project was a major initiative to re-organize and make more accessible the Moshe Safdie Archive held at the John Bland Canadian Architecture Collection with the objective of tailoring the holdings to support the research and teaching mission of the University, create a more secure archive in terms of housing and standards, and to represent more accurately the achievements of Moshe Safdie and Associates up to 2001.

The major personnel event of the year was the work disruption of 113 MUNACA Library staff throughout the Fall 2011 term. Thanks to the excellent support of academic and management staff, and the outstanding cooperation of McGill Security, the Library was able to provide continuous service to its users. During this time, three branches opened for 24 hour study from September throughout the year for the first time.

Facilities

The Humanities and Social Sciences Library, housed in the McLennan-Redpath complex experienced a severe flood in September 2011 when a city reservoir pipe burst at the top of the campus. The water infiltrated the basement of the McLennan Library Building which houses Rare and Special collections and the McGill Archives. Extensive damage occurred requiring freeze drying and repair of both material and the physical space. Relocation of this material and the 300,000 volumes housed in the Redpath basement is an urgent priority for the upcoming year. All branches are stretched in terms of both user and collection space. The most important strategic priority for the Library's foreseeable future is restoring and creating optimal physical spaces for collections, users, and staff.

As well as the major repairs that were undertaken after the flood, the Library has undertaken other facilities projects, including Phase I of the McLennan-Redpath Terrace renovation. The heating, ventilation and air conditioning systems were also replaced and updated.

The Gelber Law Library renovation project was finalized in 2011, increasing critical study space and expanding natural light exposure on the ground floor. The Marvin Duchow Music Library and the Schulich School of Music collaborated in converting space to new smart classrooms.

Three study areas of the Islamic Studies Library were refurbished. Seminar rooms on the 5th and 6th floors of the McLennan Library Building were converted into two group study zones. The study zone on the main floor of the Redpath Library Building opened and through the allocation of funds by the Arts Undergraduate Society (AUS) the Library refurbished the quiet zone located on the 3rd floor of the McLennan Building, renovated two group study rooms on the 2nd floor of the same building, and enriched the DVD and graphic novels collections. Through funds allotted by the Students' Society of McGill University (SSMU), two group study rooms in the McLennan Library were renovated.

6. Budget

The figures below represent the Library's sources of income, allocations and the breakdown of the collections budget for 2011.

As shown in Figure 2, it is important to note that the Library spends significantly more money on collections than staffing. The collections budget, as shown in Figure 3, is dominated by the journal budget in accordance with the University's status as Canada's top ranked research intensive institution and the concomitant user demand for journal literature.

7. Honours, Awards and Prizes

The Library was ranked no. 2 in The Globe and Mail's Annual Canadian University Report. (See http://v1.theglobeandmail.com/partners/free/cur_2010/cur_ezine2011.html p.52).

The Penfield Archive was declared a collection of outstanding significance and national importance by The Canadian Cultural Properties Export Review Board in June 2011.

The William Weintraub Papers were received by the Library in 2011, and certified as Cultural property by The Canadian Cultural Properties Export Review Board.

8. Fundraising

Annual philanthropic support by parents of current and past McGill students and McGill Graduates continues to make an important impact on the life of the Library. Parents and Graduates each contributed almost equal amounts, totalling $600,000.

The past year featured a number of notable gifts to the Library including the establishment of the Mary Louise Nickerson Fellowship in Neuro History with a gift of $250,000 from Dr. Granville Nickerson Med'45. In addition, Professor Ethel Groffier DCL'72 established the Raymond Klibansky Collection Fund with a gift of $100,000. Both gifts will help to offset the costs of scholars and graduate students for travel to Montreal to access and use two unique Library collections. The Class of Medicine'61 has raised $45,000 for the production of a facsimile edition and companion volume of essays on the Herbal of al-Ghafiqi, a unique 13th century manuscript housed in the Osler Library. A donation of $175,000 was made to the Marvin Duchow Music Library. The Wainwright Trust renewed an annual $25,000 contribution towards the purchase of Civil Law materials. The Principal financially supported the restoration of four rare law books (with the Dean of Law) and 17 books from Rare Books and Special Collections.

The Library also acquired pieces of importance to the Osler Library of the History of Medicine and to the Library's Rare Books and Special Collections (Appendix C).

Student support of the Library is a very important source of funding. The SSMU support, with matching funds from the university, totalled $650,000. Similarly the Post Graduate Students' Society (PGSS) contributed $160,000. The AUS donated $105,000.

The Osler Library's Board of Curators set a goal to raise $2.5 Million of unrestricted funds to enhance the Osler endowment.

Appendix C. Acquisitions

Osler Library of the History of Medicine

Reproduction of a 12th Century Arabic medical treatise, the Kitab-al-Dirvaq, also known as Thériaque de Paris, by Muhammad ibn Abi-alFath. The original manuscript is a highly illustrated treatise on ancient medicine that includes illustrations of the medicinal plants used for the recipes of a number of classical Greek physicians such as Galen. The facsimile is printed on vellum in full colour and includes essays by five important scholars.

Charles Nicholas Jenty's Demonstratio uteri praegnantis mulieris cum foetu ad partum maturi in tabulis sex, printed in Nuremberg in 1761. This is a very rare obstetrical atlas known for its stunning illustrations by Jan van Rymsdyk – a Dutch artist working in England famous for his work in the obstetrical atlases of William Hunter and William Smellie as well as Jenty. The atlas is very rare – this is the only known copy in Canada. Only three copies seem to have been offered on the market in the last 30 years. $37,000 was donated by Dr. Milton Leong to purchase this in the memory of Dr. Robert A. H. Kinch.

Catoptrum Microcosmicum, a 1619 anatomical atlas by Johann Remmelin with paper flaps to show different layers of the body. Sir William Osler collected the text for this work (BO 3791) but didn't have the atlas.

The American Gentleman's Medical Pocket Book and Health Advisor (1833) was gifted to the Library. The donor claimed that the book belonged to Dr. Andrew Fernando Holmes, one of the founders of McGill's Faculty of Medicine.
