

Presented by Dr. Osler.

Bicuspid aortic valve of congenital origin.
Acute infective (recurrent) endocarditis.
Coronary segment united.

A slight degree of compensatory changes in that the raphe is partly obliterated, the fused segment is longer than the single one, also evidence of recent malignant endocarditis and sclerosis from previous disease.

15