Faculty Lecturer (Professional)

Faculty of Medicine – School of Physical and Occupational Therapy

Position description

The School of Physical and Occupational Therapy is seeking applications for a 12-month part-time position (2.5 days/week) as a member of the Contract Academic Staff at the rank of Faculty Lecturer (Professional). For two days a week the candidate will, in collaboration with the Occupational Therapy Clinical Education team, be responsible for the coordination and teaching responsibilities associated with four clinical practica courses and two clinical practicum preparatory seminars for students. For one half-day a week, the candidate will be responsible for teaching responsibilities associated with musculoskeletal and neurology content within the Occupational Therapy Professional Master’s program.

The School is affiliated with McGill, Canada’s most international university, which is located in vibrant, multicultural Montreal, in the francophone province of Quebec.

Job Duties

Responsibilities related to clinical education include:
- Academic counseling to establish student learning needs and assist students experiencing difficulty in clinical practica courses;
- Providing Continuing professional development for clinical educators; and
- Assisting clinical teaching sites in the on-going development of their teaching programs.

Responsibilities related to teaching include being involved in approximately four credits of teaching. This teaching will involve:
- Teaching and evaluation linked to the practical examinations that take place within the 8-credit musculoskeletal course for Premaster’s students;
- A mix of theoretical and skill-based learning;
- Large or small group teaching within a neurology course.

Administrative responsibilities will include involvement in the Occupational Therapy Program activities and meetings and service on program, school, national, and international committees and professional associations.
The successful candidate will also:
- Liaise with clinical teaching sites to keep abreast of changes within the clinical community;
- Liaise with other Quebec and Canadian Occupational Therapy (OT) fieldwork coordinators to facilitate student fieldwork opportunities within and outside of McGill University territory;
- Attend and participate in faculty meetings and clinical education team meetings; and
- Participate in the Committee on University Fieldwork Education (CUFE) national teleconference.

Collaborative scholarly initiatives are encouraged.
