HVAC project continues

We are currently in the construction phase of the HVAC project. The project aims to upgrade the HVAC infrastructure of the Duff building in order to provide better air supply through the primary air system. The new electro-mechanical room is being erected on top of the Meakins-Christie wing to accommodate the new ventilation system and electrical generator. This month, some occupants of the new wing on the 5th and 6th floors will be moved to the 4th to facilitate work being conducted on these floors. The project is aimed to be completed by early 2019.

We thank you for your patience and collaboration during this process.
