

COURSE DESIGN AND TEACHING

McGill

MIIE
McGill International
Institute of Education

MIIE | WE BRING MCGILL TO YOU

The McGill International Institute of Education (MIIE) is a global learning classroom rich in its diversity and flexible in its accessibility. MIIE offers Professional Development Certificate in Global Trends in Education upon completion of a set number of courses and custom-designed curricula, programs, and courses, each tailored to your needs and objectives.

As the focus of the world shifts, as do curriculums and teaching methods. Teaching a course involves more than just a presentation of a course content, but also encompasses the actual transference of knowledge to students. As such, the activities in this workshop were created to address questions such as:

- How can we help professors focus more on student learning?
- How can we encourage professors to reflect on and adjust their teaching methods?
- What are the barriers we have to overcome to create learning-centric courses and workshops?

OBJECTIVES

- Foster learning-centered teaching
- Understand how knowledge development within a subject area influences teaching practice
- Enable teachers to put new teaching methods into practice
- Inspire professors to focus more on student knowledge acquisition
- Encourage teaching practices to evolve
- Promote higher education and the knowledge, skills and competencies required of graduates

TARGET AUDIENCE

University Faculty, University Teaching and Learning Centers, Trainers in Organizations

COURSE
DURATION

35-40
hours

McGill Faculty of Education
3700 McTavish, Montreal
QC, Canada H3A 1Y2

miie.education@mcgill.ca

mcgill.ca/miie