Barbara B. Sherwin

PUBLICATIONS IN PEER-REVIEWED JOURNALS (last 10 years)

(* asterisks denote graduate student collaborators)

*Schattmann, L., Sherwin, BB. Testosterone levels and cognitive functioning in women with polycystic ovary syndrome and in healthy young women. Hormones and Behavior, 2007; 51: 587-596.

Sherwin BB. Estrogen and memory in women: how can we reconcile the findings? Hormones and Behavior 2005;47: 371-375.

Sherwin BB. Estrogen and cognition in women: Results of the WHIMS trial. Journal of Evidence-Based Mental Health 2004.

Sherwin BB. Testosterone plus estrogen increased sexual interest in postmenopausal women. Evidence-Based Obstetrics and Gynecology 2004;6:41-42.

*Carlson L.E., Sherwin BB. Higher levels of plasma estradiol in healthy elderly men compared to age-matched women may protect memory. Menopause, 2000;7: 168-177.

* Carlson L.E., Sherwin BB, Chertkow H.M. Relationships between dehydroepiandrosterone sulphate and cortisol plasma levels and everyday memory in Alzheimer’s Disease patients compared to healthy controls. Hormones and Behavior, 1999; 35: 254-263.