

GREAT Award Application

GREAT Awards are given to Graduate Students to support research-related conference travel. This includes travel to scientific conferences and for the dissemination of results. Normally, students are expected to present their research or to have work presented for which they are an author or co-author. Other short-term travel for the purpose of training and collaborative research is usually supported by Student Mobility funds. However, in exceptional circumstances GREAT funds may be allocated for these purposes.

A GREAT award allocation is usually up to $600 or 50% of the cost, whichever is less. These funds are limited and matching funds from other sources are expected. Supervisors are expected to provide funding as necessary.

GREAT applicants must be full-time thesis students, M.Sc. (years 1-2) or Ph.D. (years 1-5) students and must be registered at the Institute of Parasitology.

Applications must be submitted by March 10 for travel in each academic year. Award allocations will take place shortly after. To apply, fill this form and send a copy to Amanda Johnston (amanda.johnston@mcgill.ca) for processing.

Post-travel report is required: Recipients of a GREAT Award must submit a detailed expense report outlining the use of the travel award and the relevance of this travel to their graduate research. All related receipts are also required. Please submit these documents to Amanda (amanda.johnston@mcgill.ca) within 30 days following your travel. Applications for future GREAT awards is dependent on fulfilling all requirements.
