

Moy Fong Chen Travel Award

Two (2) M.F. Chen Travel Awards will be awarded every year (each valued at $1,000). There will be one call for applications in the Fall and another in the Winter (each covering a 6-month window of travel).

To be eligible to apply for this award, the following criteria must be met:

- Resident or Graduate Student (in good academic standing) in Pathology
- Travel for an international scientific or medical conference
- The trainee must be presenting a research project (oral or poster presentation)

The Graduate Training Committee (GTC) will evaluate applications, with priority given to:

- Trainees who are first author on the study being presented
- Oral presentations

Application process and deadlines:

Fall 2024: for international conference travel between July 2024 and December 2024 (applications due by 01 November 2024)

Winter 2025: for international conference travel between January 2025 and June 2025 (applications due by 01 March 2025)

Please send a copy of your accepted Abstract (indicate oral or poster presentation and list of authors), proof of conference registration, and your CV by email to Amanda Perozzo (amanda.perozzo@mcgill.ca) by 01 November or 01 March.