Hi everyone,

Inter-professional education is a strategic priority of the Faculty of Medicine. While this typically applies to the composition of the learners, it can also apply to the composition of the teachers.

This week's Departmental Acknowledgement goes to Tanya Di Genova and Linda Masse who brought their skills sets, passion and respective professionalism together as physician and nurse to formulate the new practicum for the training of pediatric nurse practitioners (PNP) at the MCH. This is especially important as this is for the most part a new health profession in Quebec that will play an increasingly important role in the management of health issues in our population. Over time it can be expected that PNPs will increasingly populate our child health care networks. Indeed, the MCH is fortunate enough to have 11 PNP positions to be added to our staffing over the next 3 years over a breadth of hospital-based programs with 4 to start shortly.

Tanya and Linda should be thanked and recognized for their innovative contribution to health professional education.

Have a great weekend everyone!
