The McGill University Dermatology Residency Training Program is a five-year program and is accredited by the Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons of Canada and the Collège des médecins du Québec. Our training sites include the Montreal General Hospital, the Royal Victoria Hospital, the Jewish General Hospital and the Montreal Children's Hospital. There are also opportunities for community dermatology rotations and interprovincial or international electives.

The objective of the program is to train compassionate physicians and competent dermatologists to provide the best skin care possible to our population, and also to promote research development to advance our understanding of skin diseases and to discover better therapeutic strategies.

During the first year of training, the residents will complete the required Internal Medicine (or Pediatrics) rotations. During the second year, rotations will be through various selective fields related to dermatology before starting the core dermatology program which includes clinical rotations at the 4 teaching hospitals as well as other subspecialty rotations such as dermatopathology, medical subspecialty clinics and surgical subspecialty clinics.

Throughout training, the residents will participate in all scholarly activities within the Division including research projects and academic teaching sessions. Academic half-days occur on a weekly basis with presentations on subjects linked to a common pathologic theme of the week. Other activities include Book Clubs, Journal Clubs, Wellness Day, career planning and professional development courses and a Research Day.
