

Job Posting: Junior Toxicologist

KGK Science is a world-leading Contract Research Organization and provider of Clinical Research and Regulatory services for the Natural Health Products industry.

Reports to: Director Regulatory Affairs

Job Type: Full-Time Employee

Summary: The Junior Toxicologist is responsible for the drafting, organization, copy editing, and delivery of scientific and regulatory portfolios on nutraceutical ingredients involving a number of areas, including safety, quality, and assessments of scientific/research gaps. The ideal candidate will be a driven individual with a passion for science and nutraceuticals.

Job Duties:

- Author safety reports and narratives on nutraceutical ingredients and products for regulatory submissions in accordance with established templates and predetermined timelines
- Review and interpret pre-clinical toxicology reports and human clinical trial reports
- Conduct scientific literature reviews
- Understand scientific conclusions from peer-reviewed and open-source literature
- Facilitate robust communication with other internal teams
- Abide by all policies and procedures within the company
- Other ad hoc duties as assigned

Requirements:

- M.Sc or PhD. in toxicology/pharmacology or closely related field with toxicology experience
- Experience in regulatory affairs or nutrition/natural health product industry is a strong asset
- Ability to work individually and as part of a team
- Ability to drive process, manage multiple projects and take ownership for project execution
- Exceptional time management skills
- Accountable and accurate, with a keen eye for detail
- Copy editing and wordsmithing skillset for scientific and regulatory work products
- Adept in multi-tasking and adapting to change

Working Conditions:

- Fast-paced office environment
- Overtime as required

If interested in the position, please submit your resume and a cover letter addressing the following questions:

What drives your interest in toxicology and nutraceuticals?

We are an equal opportunity employer and thank all those who apply. Only those selected for an interview will be contacted.