POLI227 Introduction to the Politics of Developing Areas
McGill University, Winter 2022 semester

Course Instructors: Kip Jorgensen (Kristoffer.jorgensen@mail.mcgill.ca) and Daniel Douek, PhD (daniel.douek@mcgill.ca)

Online Lectures: Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays 2:35-3:25PM

Office Hours: TBA

From the week of 17 Jan. onward, TA Conferences will begin and lectures will be held on Mondays and Wednesdays only (no Friday lectures)

Note: Prof. Jorgensen will teach this class from 5 Jan. to 2 Feb.; Prof. Douek will return from parental leave to teach from Feb. 7 onward

Course Description:
This Comparative Politics course is an introduction to the politics of the developing world, also known as the Global South or the Third World, which broadly includes the states and peoples of Africa, Asia and Latin America, the Caribbean, and the South Pacific. Most of the world’s population lives there, yet since 1492, power globally has been concentrated in the hands of the wealthier, northern countries. The course is a comparative examination of the legacies of colonialism, the achievements of independence, and contemporary dynamics of political and socio-economic development in the Global South. Topics include modernization, dependency, state-building and national integration, revolution, regime change, and democratization.

Prerequisites: None. For this course, there is no expectation of prior knowledge of political science.

Online Course Delivery:
Lectures: The lectures for this course will be delivered live on Zoom, unless indicated otherwise. All lectures will be available through MyCourses. You are welcome to attend the live sessions. But in all cases, you will have the option of listening to the lectures on your own time. There is no requirement or expectation that students watch the lectures in real time.

Readings:
The course readings are in the textbook Politics in the Developing World (5th edition), by Burnell, Rakner, and Randall (Oxford University Press: 2017), available via the bookstore in hard copy and as an e-book. There are several other readings that will be posted on MyCourses. The textbook is mandatory.
Slides: In cases where lectures are accompanied by PowerPoint presentations, the slides will be made available to students via MyCourses for studying and clarification purposes.

Assignments: All written student work for this course will be in the form of take-home exams and essays of varying length and content (see below for more details). Assignments will be posted on MyCourses, and due for electronic submission, according to the schedule laid out in the syllabus. Students will have a minimum of several days to work on all assignments for this course; all will be open-book; none will be held in real-time. Students will receive written feedback on their midterm and research essay from teaching assistants.

Communication: Your Teaching Assistants are your first point of contact for the course and you should direct questions to them first. However, instructors can also be reached via email and during electronic office hours, to be held via Zoom. We will endeavour to respond to emails within 48 hours during weekdays (we’re often offline on weekends). If you have a lengthy question, please ask during office hours instead. Note that we will not be available via email to summarize readings or tell you what you missed if you were absent. Please also bear in mind that even if you feel your situation is urgent, we may not reply right away. Also, please be sure to consult this handy guide to emailing your professor.

Keep up with the news: You will get more out of any political science class if you keep up with current events. Reliable news sources include the Washington Post, BBC World, CBC, Financial Times, Al-Jazeera, Foreign Policy, New York Times, Globe and Mail, the Guardian, and the Economist. These are accessible via the library, paywall-free.

Course Requirements and Assessment:

- All work is to be completed remotely and submitted via MyCourses.

TA CONFERENCE PARTICIPATION (10%): TA Conferences are weekly discussion groups led by teaching assistants, which provide an interactive dimension to the class. This semester, both in-person and online conferences will be made available. Conferences begin the week of 17 January; last week of conferences is the week of 4 April. You must register for one on Minerva. Note: if the conference section you were hoping to attend is full, please contact your TA directly, rather than the course instructor! You’ll be graded on both quality and quantity of participation.

This rubric explains the basic criteria for participation grades. Each factor will be taken into account in assigning grades. Please note that the quality of the contribution is as important as the frequency.

TAKE-HOME MIDTERM EXAM (25%): The midterm exam will be posted on Monday February 14 and due Friday February 18. Format will be announced in class.

RESEARCH ESSAY (35%): The essay should be 10-12 double-spaced pages. Suggested topics will be posted on MyCourses on Friday 28 January. The essay is due on Friday 18 March. You are welcome to choose your own essay topic, but in that case, make sure to get your TA to approve the topic beforehand. I will post an essay-writing guide on MyCourses, which you should follow carefully, and which will contain information about how to choose a topic and organize your essay.

TAKE-HOME FINAL EXAM (30%): To be scheduled by the University during the final exam period in April. Students will have 72 hours to complete the exam, to be submitted via MyCourses.

In order to calculate your final grade, all of the points you have received in the class and will be summed up and converted into letter grades using the following scale:

- 85-100 = A
- 80-84 = A-
- 75-79 = B+
- 70-74 = B
- 65-69 = B-
- 60-64 = C+
- 55-59 = C
- 50-54 = D
- Below 50 = F

Scores of 0.5 and higher will be rounded up and scores of less than 0.5 round down. No exceptions will be made to the above system of converting points into letter grades.
Students who wish to contest a grade for an assignment or exam must do so in writing (by email, sent to the instructor) providing the reasoning behind their challenge to the grade received, within two weeks of the day on which the assignments are returned. The TA who graded the assignment will re-grade your assignment, and may raise or lower the grade. If you are still unsatisfied after the re-assessment, you can re-submit the assignment to the instructor (original copy with TA comments), along with your justification, who will then re-evaluate the paper, but also reserve the right to raise or lower the grade.

Late penalties. Assignments will be penalized 10% for every day late. Extensions on assignments are only open to those who can provide a valid medical/family reason.

Course and University Policies:

Academic Integrity: McGill University values academic integrity. Therefore, all students must understand the meaning and consequences of cheating, plagiarism and other academic offences under the Code of Student Conduct and Disciplinary Procedures” (see McGill’s guide to academic honesty for more information).

Special Needs: As the instructor of this course I endeavor to provide an inclusive learning environment. However, if you experience barriers to learning in this course, do not hesitate to discuss them with me and the Office for Students with Disabilities, 514-398-6009. Students with disabilities should register with the Office for Students with Disabilities and follow its procedures for obtaining assistance. If you need any assistance or modifications relating to disabilities, please come see me as early as possible in the semester and I will work with you and the Office for Students with Disabilities to accommodate your needs appropriately and fairly. Please remember that the OSD has no authority to approve changes to course assignment due dates or exam dates, to devise alternative assignments or waive course requirements. If you should have any reason to miss a substantial part of the course, or if you are unable to complete any course assignments or requirements for any reason, it is your responsibility to inform the Course Professor (and not just OSD or your TA) of your situation as soon as possible.

Language of Submission: In accord with McGill University’s Charter of Students’ Rights, students in this course have the right to submit in English or in French any written work that is to be graded. This does not apply to courses in which acquiring proficiency in a language is one of the objectives. Conformément à la Charte des droits de l’étudiant de l’Université McGill, chaque étudiant a le droit de soumettre en français ou en anglais tout travail écrit devant être noté (sauf dans le cas des cours dont l’un des objets est la maîtrise d’une langue).

Course Evaluations: End-of-course evaluations are one of the ways that McGill works towards maintaining and improving the quality of courses and the student’s learning experience. You will be notified by e-mail when the evaluations are available. Please note that a minimum number of responses must be received for results to be available to students.

Copyright of Lectures: All slides, video recordings, lecture notes, etc. remain the instructor’s intellectual property. As such, you may use these only for your own learning (and research, with proper referencing/citation) ends. You are not permitted to disseminate or share these materials; doing so may violate the instructor’s intellectual property rights and could be cause for disciplinary action.

Online Etiquette Guidelines: The University recognizes the importance of maintaining teaching spaces that are respectful and inclusive for all involved. To this end, offensive, violent, or harmful language arising in contexts such as the following may be cause for disciplinary action:

1. Username (use only your legal or preferred name)
2. Visual backgrounds
3. “Chat” boxes

To maintain a clear and uninterrupted learning space for all, you should keep your microphone muted throughout your class, unless invited by the instructor to speak. You should follow instructors’ directions about the use of the “chat” function on remote learning platforms.

Note: In the event of extraordinary circumstances beyond the University’s control, the content and/or evaluation scheme in this course is subject to change. The privilege of additional work will not be granted.

Content warning: Please be aware that some of the course content, especially as it relates to various forms of political violence and discrimination, may be disturbing for some students. This content has been included in the course because it directly relates to the learning outcomes. Please contact the instructor if you have specific concerns about this.

In the event of extraordinary circumstances beyond the University's control, the content and/or evaluation scheme in this course is subject to change.

More Resources for Students:

Equity Advisors in the Department of Political Science
In the context of ongoing efforts to promote strong and sustainable departmental responses to the issues of harassment and sexual misconduct, the Department of Political Science has appointed two professors to the position of equity advisor. The aim of this position is to work in cooperation with the chair and other members of the department to promote strengthened norms and practices in the department regarding preventing and addressing harassment and sexual misconduct. The equity advisors are available, individually or in tandem, to meet with colleagues and students to discuss questions relating to harassment, sexual misconduct, and related equity concerns, and will refer students and colleagues to the relevant specialized services and offices at McGill. They will promote awareness and application of policies and guidelines related to these issues in the department, including the Department of Political Science Guidelines on Relationships between Instructors and Students.
Our current equity officers are Professor Kelly Gordon (kelly.gordon2@mcgill.ca) and Professor Will Roberts (william.roberts3@mcgill.ca). Please feel free to reach out to either Professor Gordon or Professor Roberts with any concerns in relation to this issue.

Political Science Students’ Association (PSSA):
The PSSA represents the students enrolled in major, minor, honours, and joint-honours undergraduate degrees in the department of political science at McGill University. They advocate for students’ needs and concerns with the aim of helping to promote students’ experience and overall wellbeing. The team offers many involvement opportunities, coordinates academic and social events and services, provides advising and student support, and enhances the relationship between students, staff, and administration as student liaisons.
