PRIMARY DUTIES

Go to instructor’s office 30 minutes before the exam takes place as preparation period (specific instructions about announcements, distribution and collection of exams and handling of problems). Take exams to the exam location. During the exam, invigilators ensure that students are not cheating by closely monitoring their behavior; invigilators must identify any students even suspected of cheating, and report the incident to the instructor. Invigilators also make announcements and handle student problems during the exam. After the exam, invigilators help to collect the exam booklets in an orderly fashion, and return them to the instructor's office. Note: Training may be required if no experience in invigilating.
