Barbara and Patrick Keenan Experience Award

The award will be awarded by the School of Religious Studies to students participating in an activity in an international setting to further their studies, allowing first-hand experience of religious cultures in a global context. The fund provides financial assistance to students with travel and other expenses related to international activity. Students can apply for affiliation at an institution that furthers their study of religion and international encounters. Open to students in any Faculty who have completed at least 2 courses in religious studies. Students must be returning to McGill the semester following the international activity.

PURPOSE OF TRAVEL
