

Technology Ecology Religion Roundtable

Nov 4, 4:00-5:30pm
Senior Common Room,
Birks Building, McGill University

Join us in reflecting on the intersections between technology, ecology, and religion.

Panelists are part of the TERA collective, a project led by Dr. Hillary Kaell that unites a group of seven emerging scholars and artists working in Canada, the United States, and the Caribbean. Panelists will discuss their current work and host a broader conversation about creativity and curiosity at the intersection of technology, ecology, and religion.

All are welcome.
Refreshments will be served.

For more about TERA:
<http://www.hillarykaell.com/tera.html>

Speakers:

Hillary Kaell
*William Dawson Research Chair,
Associate Professor
McGill University*

Judith Ellen Brunton
*Postdoctoral Fellow,
Weatherhead Center
Harvard University*

Elonda Clay,
*Library Director,
Methodist Theological School*

Gabriel Dharmoo
*Composer & Performance Artist,
Montreal*

Alejandro Escalante
*Lecturer, Social Anthropology
University of Edinburgh*

Nadia Huggins
*Photographer & Visual Artist,
St. Vincent & the Grenadines*

Amanda Nichols,
*Postdoctoral Fellow,
Environmental Studies
UC Santa Barbara*

McGill

School of Religious Studies

