

FIG. 4 Schematic organization of the major cell types in the epididymis as observed at the light microscope. The three epididymal compartments as well as the relative position and distribution of each of the main cell types are illustrated. The major function(s) associated with each cell type is also identified.