Rationale		This opportunity to undertake a research project at the undergraduate level is offered every semester to students who identify a willing supervisor. This revision clarifies the deadline for approval of such research projects and focusses its purpose as an undergraduate research course. The course gives our students the opportunity of hands-on experience in scientific research complementary to EPSC396. This change has no impact on our undergraduate programs because the course is neither required nor is it included in our complementary course list. Also, the reading component has been removed from the course description, and the course title has been changed to reflect the changes.
