A New MSc (Applied) Communication Sciences and Disorders: Non-Thesis Speech Language Pathology Designed for YOU

McGill University's School of Communication Sciences and Disorders (SCSD) is immensely proud of the hundreds of professional speech-language pathologists it has graduated since 1968, many leaders in the field. We offer a program that closely interweaves theory with clinical training, and that is taught by world-renowned experts. Speech-language Pathology (SLP) is a fast-paced field that is continually adapting to innovations in science and clinical practice, as well as to social and demographic shifts. And so are we. Starting fall 2022, McGill’s SCSD is launching a new program to remain at the forefront.

What’s New?

Enriched curriculum: 3 new courses

– Essential competencies for SLP (1,2,3,4)
– Counselling in SLP
– Literacy across the lifespan

New summer term, Year 1

– 3 new courses above in July/August
– Longer Year-1 spring practicum

Less intensive, more support

– Workload intensity reduced each term
– Personalized support throughout spring practicum
– Progression committees to support your success along the way

Competency-based approach

– Competency portfolio to assess your clinical skills
– You select the workshops you need to achieve the required clinical competencies Spreading courses out through the summer will have many benefits: better balance of workload during each term, opportunities to receive support from faculty for learning, and time for self-care to improve mental health, especially in the winter!

Status Quo…

High standards of excellence
- Accredited by Canadian Council of University Programs in Communications Sciences and Disorders
- Competitive admission requirements

Broad and deep learning
- 24-month graduate-level program of study
- 6 terms of study over 2 years
- 82 credits offered at very competitive tuition fees

Diverse and inclusive
- Diverse, multilingual student body in a dynamic multicultural setting

For more information, please contact:
School of Communication Sciences and Disorders
2001 McGill College, 8th floor
Montreal, Quebec H3A 1G1
T. 514.398.4137
F. 514.398.8123
scsd@mcgill.ca
www.mcgill.ca/scsd/programs/slp
www.mcgill.ca/scsd/fr/programmes/orthophonie-msca