

Elise Karagueuzian
McGill University

(+1) 514-625-8138
elise.karagueuzian@mcgill.ca

Profile

- Ph.D. in Social Studies of Medicine, McGill University, 2014-present
- Research on innovation and healthcare policies
- Master thesis on genetic screening regulation in Quebec, University of Montreal, 2014
- Bilingual in English and French

Scholarships and grants

Fonds de Recherche du Québec Société et Culture (FRQSC) 2016-2019
20,000$/year

“Innovation and Change in the Organizational Strategy of the Biotechnology Industry”

The proposed research will examine the innovative ability of biotechnologies to restructure organizational strategy. The main objective is to draw on the dynamism between strategy and organization, to understand how pioneering companies manages social and technical change, decision-making, and stakeholders such as customers, partners, investors and suppliers, and how this leads to growth in the Research and Development (R&D) industrial domain.

Research experience

Research Assistant on MRA (mutual recognition arrangement) of French physicians in Quebec 2013-2015

INRS, Montreal, Canada

Research Assistant on the usage of technology in the juridical system in Quebec 2012-2014

Centre de recherche en droit public et département d’anthropologie
University of Montreal, Montreal, Canada

Conference, symposium and publication

« Les parcours d’entrée à la pratique professionnelle de travailleurs français au Québec, dans le cadre des arrangements de reconnaissance mutuelle France-Québec : le cas des médecins »
(Collaboration)

Jean-Luc Bedard and Lucie Roger
INRS, 2015, Montreal

« Analyse anthropologique des politiques de brevetage génétique : le cas du BRCA 1 et 2 au Québec » (Poster)

Elise Karagueuzian

BRCA Symposium, 2014, Montreal

« Taking entanglement seriously in sociomateriality research » (Presentation)

Diego Mastroianni, Samer Faraj and Elise Karagueuzian
EGOS 2013, Montreal

Teaching experience

University Lecturer, Health and development McGill, Montreal, Canada	2018
University Lecturer, Family and Modern Society McGill, Montreal, Canada	2017
Teaching Assistant, Socialization McGill, Montreal, Canada	2017
Teaching Assistant, Family and Modern Society McGill, Montreal, Canada	2016
Teaching Assistant, Socialization McGill, Montreal, Canada	2016
Teaching Assistant Sociology of Aging and Life Course McGill, Montreal, Canada	2014

M.Sc. Thesis (University of Montreal, 2014)

“Anthropological analysis of genetic patent policies: The case of BRCA 1/2 in Quebec”

The proposed research will examine the innovative ability of biotechnologies to restructure organizational strategy. The main objective is to draw on the dynamism between strategy and organization, to understand how pioneering companies manages social and technical change, decision-making, and stakeholders such as customers, partners, investors and suppliers, and how this leads to growth in the Research and Development (R&D) industrial domain.

Education

Ph. D Social Studies of Medicine McGill, Montreal, Canada	2014 –
M.Sc. Anthropology University of Montreal, Montreal, Canada	2014
B.Sc. Anthropology University of Montreal, Montreal, Canada	2012

Research interest

Healthcare policies

Regulation between institutions, organizations and government

Language and software skills

French (mother language)

English (expert level)

Italian and Portugese (intermediary)

Software: Word, Excel, Outlook, PowerPoint, Stata

Volunteering

Lighthouse, children and families: on-site respite service Volunteers entertain and divert the children Montreal, Canada	2016 –
CHUM, genetic services Transcription of genealogic trees for genetic screening Montreal, Canada	2015

Hobbies

Interior design

Crafting