Apply for an entrance scholarship.

McGill offers a merit-based Entrance Scholarship Program and a needs-based Entrance Bursary Program to first-time university students entering a full-time undergraduate degree program.

Major entrance scholarships

Major entrance scholarships are highly competitive. To see if you qualify, consult the minimum academic requirements page. There are no individual applications for specific entrance scholarships.

The major entrance scholarships program requires a separate application soon after you've applied for admission. The deadline for applying for a major scholarship is usually one week after your admission deadline. Please consult the Scholarships and Student Aid website for detailed instructions and deadlines.

All students are encouraged to explore the full range of funding opportunities available to them. We also highly recommend our Frugal Scholar Hub that can help you with financial planning and debt management.
