Dedicated funding is available for Indigenous students. You may also be eligible for bursaries and funding programs offered by the government and McGill.

McGill Ohunora Undergraduate Award
Admissions and returning Indigenous students are eligible for funding through Indspire of $5,000 per year, up to $20,000 for a four year degree program.*

Provost’s Indigenous Achievement Award
This is a $5,000 renewable admissions award given to Indigenous students with exceptional high school or CEGEP grades, and who are not granted a McGill Entrance Scholarship. One to three awards are issued every year based on academic merit and all incoming students are automatically considered.

*Please note that funding for these awards is available to Canadian citizens only.

Indigenous Graduate Excellence Recruitment Fellowship
This non-renewable award, paid in installments over the first 12 months of study, provides support in addition to the core funding offered by a department, supervisor, or Faculty.

Funding available: PhD - $10,000 | Masters (Thesis) - $5,000 | Masters (Non-Thesis) - $2,500

Get funding for your studies

Keep in touch

Interested in studying at McGill?
Take the first step by connecting with us. Join our mailing list, or reach out to speak directly with an Indigenous recruiter.

Sign up for updates by email
Stay on top of deadlines, receive invites to virtual and in-person events, and be the first to know when a McGill representative is coming to your area.

Speak with an Indigenous recruiter
If you have questions about McGill, including our programs, the admissions process and the Indigenous Applicants’ Portal, contact us directly at indigenousoutreach@mcgill.ca.

Explore financial aid
mcgill.ca/undergraduate-admissions

Sign up for updates

Sage Karahkwinetha Goodleaf-Labelle
Kanien’keha:ka & Pueblo
Bachelor of Arts

Indigenous Student Guide

Sage Karahkwinetha Goodleaf-Labelle
Kanien’keha:ka & Pueblo
Bachelor of Arts

Indigenous Student Guide

Sage Karahkwinetha Goodleaf-Labelle
Kanien’keha:ka & Pueblo
Bachelor of Arts

Indigenous Student Guide

Sage Karahkwinetha Goodleaf-Labelle
Kanien’keha:ka & Pueblo
Bachelor of Arts
Join a supportive campus community

The First Peoples’ House is the hub of Indigenous life on campus. They offer services, facilities, programs and events to help you build a community and succeed, from your first day as a student until convocation.

Find your place on campus

For many first-year students, moving away from home is a big transition. McGill’s traditions offer a welcoming and supportive living community where you can identify personally, socially, and academically. All first-year students are guaranteed housing if they apply for it. Limited subsidised housing is available for Indigenous students.

Indigenous student orientation

Take part in fun activities and connect with student groups. Get to know your community at McGill. Join fellow students and craft it as home at the First Peoples’ House.

Find the right program for you

You can have an enriching education at McGill, with hundreds of programs offered for every interest. Follow your passions and apply to the program that is best for you.

Undergraduate studies

At McGill, we face challenges with determination and optimism. With 300+ programs and real-world learning opportunities, the McGill experience offers new pathways of education and prepares you for a successful career.

The Indigenous Applicants Protocol encourages admissions decision-makers to take educational experiences that are unique to Indigenous applicants into consideration.

Cultural events

Our vibrant culture at McGill is made together. Stay connected with the Indigenous Knowledge Lecture Series, pipe ceremonies, workshops, Indigenous Awareness Weeks, social gatherings and more.

Medicine

The Faculty of Medicine aims to train more Indigenous health professionals, and to educate the greater population about the health needs of Indigenous people.

Graduate studies

McGill has a bold history of research guided by driven faculty at the top of their fields. Over 1,600 tenured faculty members research and teach in more than 400 graduate programs. Join a diverse community committed to challenging the boundaries of knowledge and shaping a better future.

Learn more about First Peoples’ House

Learn more about

Interested in applying?

Learn about the admissions process

Explore continuing education programs

Learn about the admissions process

Find your desired area of research:
mcgill.ca/gradapplicants/programs

Medicine

Learn more: mcgill.ca/x/2Fg

Law

Learn more: mcgill.ca/x/3SA

Online continuing education programs

McGill’s School of Continuing Studies offers online certificate programs in Indigenous Business Management, Computers and Information Technology and Public Administration and Governance.

These courses are university-level, undergraduate, for credit programs. The programs are part-time, take about 2½ years to complete, and can be completed entirely from your home.

Find out more:
mcgill.ca/socsci/conted

Cultural events

Our vibrant culture at McGill is made together. Stay connected with the Indigenous Knowledge Lecture Series, pipe ceremonies, workshops, Indigenous Awareness Weeks, social gatherings and more.

Celebrate your successes, and support each other

Indigenous graduates participate in a traditional powwow, including a Circle of Honour, where they receive ceremonial gifts and are celebrated by the community.

Learn more about

Graduate studies

McGill has a bold history of research guided by driven faculty at the top of their fields. Over 1,600 tenured faculty members research and teach in more than 400 graduate programs. Join a diverse community committed to challenging the boundaries of knowledge and shaping a better future.

Find your desired area of research:
mcgill.ca/gradapplicants/programs

Interested in applying?

Learn about the admissions process

Explore continuing education programs

McGill University is located on land which has long served as a site of meeting and exchange amongst Indigenous peoples, including the Haudenosaunee and Anishinabeg nations. McGill honours, recognises and respects these nations as the traditional stewards of the lands and waters on which we meet today.

Learn more

Learn more: mcgill.ca/x/3pg

Learn more: mcgill.ca/x/3SA
The First Peoples’ House is the hub of Indigenous life on campus. They offer services, facilities, programs and events to help you build a community and succeed, from your first day as a student until convocation.

Undergraduate studies
At McGill, we face challenges with determination and optimism. With 300+ programs and real-world learning opportunities, the McGill experience offers new pathways of education and prepares you for a successful career.

The Indigenous Applicants Protocol encourages admissions decision-makers to take educational experiences that are unique to Indigenous applicants into consideration. It also helps McGill’s dedicated Indigenous student recruitment advisor connect with applicants to share more information about support services and funding opportunities.

Cultural events
Our vibrant culture at McGill is made together. Stay connected with the Indigenous Knowledge Lecture Series, pipe ceremonies, workshops, Indigenous Awareness Weeks, social gatherings and more.

Celebrate your successes, and support each other
Indigenous graduates participate in a traditional powwow where they receive ceremonial gifts and are celebrated by the community.

Find your place on campus
For many first-year students, moving away from home is a big transition. McGill’s residences offer a respectful and supportive living community where you can develop personally, socially, and academically. All first-year students are guaranteed housing if they apply for it. Limited subsidised housing is available for Indigenous students.

Indigenous student orientation
Take part in this activities and connect with student groups. Get to know your community at McGill. Have fellow students and craft a home at the First Peoples’ House.

Graduate studies
McGill has a bold history of research guided by driven faculty at the top of their fields. Over 1,600 tenured faculty members research and teach in more than 400 graduate programs. Join a diverse community committed to challenging the boundaries of knowledge and shaping a better future.

Interested in applying?
Learn more about First Peoples’ House

Find the right program for you
You can have an enriching education at McGill, with hundreds of programs offered for every interest. Follow your passions and apply to the program that is best for you.

Medicine
The Faculty of Medicine aims to train more Indigenous health professionals, and to educate the greater population about the health needs of Indigenous people.

Learn more: mcgill.ca/x/3pjg

Law
The Faculty of Law offers programs and courses focused on Indigenous law and governance. You can gain practical work experience and participate in outreach programs in local Indigenous communities.

Learn more: mcgill.ca/x/3SA

Online continuing education programs
McGill’s School of Continuing Studies offers online certificate programs in Indigenous Business Management, Computers and Information Technology and Public Administration and Governance. These courses are university-level, undergraduate, for-credit programs. The programs are part-time, take about 2½ years to complete, and can be completed entirely from your home.

Explore continuing education programs

McGill University is located on land which has long served as a site of meeting and exchange amongst Indigenous peoples, including the Haudenosaunee and Anishinabeg nations. McGill honours, respects and recognizes these nations as the traditional stewards of the lands and waters on which it is located today.

Join a supportive campus community

Interested in applying?
Learn more about First Peoples’ House

Find about the admissions process
Explore continuing education programs
Join a supportive campus community

The First Peoples’ House is the hub of Indigenous life on campus. They offer services, facilities, programs and events to help you build a community and succeed, from your first day as a student until convocation.

Find your place on campus

For many first-year students, moving away from home is a big transition. McGill’s residences offer a welcoming and supportive living community where you can identify personally, socially, and academically. All first-year students are guaranteed housing if they apply for it. Limited subsidized housing is available for Indigenous students.

Indigenous student orientation

Take part in this activity and connect with student groups. Get to know your community at McGill. Join fellow students andcraft a home at the First Peoples’ House.

Learn more about First Peoples’ House.

Cultural events

Our vibrant culture at McGill is made together. Stay connected with the Indigenous Knowledge Lecture Series, pipe ceremonies, workshops, Indigenous Awareness Weeks, social gatherings and more.

Undergraduate studies

At McGill, we face challenges with determination and optimism. With 300+ programs and real-world learning opportunities, the McGill experience offers new pathways of education and prepares you for a successful career.

The Indigenous Applicants Protocol encourages admissions decision-makers to take educational experiences that are unique to Indigenous applicants into consideration. It also helps McGill’s dedicated Indigenous student recruitment advisor connect with applicants to share more information about support services and funding opportunities.

Medicine

The Faculty of Medicine aims to train more Indigenous health professionals, and to educate the greater population about the health needs of Indigenous people.

Learn more: mcgill.ca/x/3pg

Law

The Faculty of Law offers programs and courses focused on Indigenous law and governance. You can gain practical work experience and participate in outreach programs in local Indigenous communities.

Learn more: mcgill.ca/x/3SA

Graduate studies

McGill has a bold history of research guided by driven faculty at the top of their fields. With 1,600 tenured faculty members research and teach in more than 400 graduate programs. Join a diverse community committed to challenging the boundaries of knowledge and shaping a better future.

Find your desired area of research: mcgill.ca/gradapplicants/programs

Online continuing education programs

McGill’s School of Continuing Studies offers online certificate programs in Indigenous Business Management, Computers and Information Technology and Public Administration and Governance. These courses are university-level, undergraduate, for-credit programs. The programs are part-time, take about 2½ years to complete, and can be completed entirely from your home.

Learn about the admissions process.

Learn about the programs.

Explore continuing education programs

Find the right program for you

You can have an enriching education at McGill, with hundreds of programs offered for every interest. Follow your passions and apply to the program that is best for you.

Find your place on campus

For many first-year students, moving away from home is a big transition. McGill’s residences offer a welcoming and supportive living community where you can identify personally, socially, and academically. All first-year students are guaranteed housing if they apply for it. Limited subsidized housing is available for Indigenous students.

Indigenous student orientation

Take part in this activity and connect with student groups. Get to know your community at McGill. Join fellow students andcraft a home at the First Peoples’ House.

Learn more about First Peoples’ House.

Cultural events

Our vibrant culture at McGill is made together. Stay connected with the Indigenous Knowledge Lecture Series, pipe ceremonies, workshops, Indigenous Awareness Weeks, social gatherings and more.

Undergraduate studies

At McGill, we face challenges with determination and optimism. With 300+ programs and real-world learning opportunities, the McGill experience offers new pathways of education and prepares you for a successful career.

The Indigenous Applicants Protocol encourages admissions decision-makers to take educational experiences that are unique to Indigenous applicants into consideration. It also helps McGill’s dedicated Indigenous student recruitment advisor connect with applicants to share more information about support services and funding opportunities.

Medicine

The Faculty of Medicine aims to train more Indigenous health professionals, and to educate the greater population about the health needs of Indigenous people.

Learn more: mcgill.ca/x/3pg

Law

The Faculty of Law offers programs and courses focused on Indigenous law and governance. You can gain practical work experience and participate in outreach programs in local Indigenous communities.

Learn more: mcgill.ca/x/3SA

Graduate studies

McGill has a bold history of research guided by driven faculty at the top of their fields. With 1,600 tenured faculty members research and teach in more than 400 graduate programs. Join a diverse community committed to challenging the boundaries of knowledge and shaping a better future.

Find your desired area of research: mcgill.ca/gradapplicants/programs

Online continuing education programs

McGill’s School of Continuing Studies offers online certificate programs in Indigenous Business Management, Computers and Information Technology and Public Administration and Governance. These courses are university-level, undergraduate, for-credit programs. The programs are part-time, take about 2½ years to complete, and can be completed entirely from your home.

Learn about the admissions process.

Learn about the programs.

Explore continuing education programs

Find your place on campus

For many first-year students, moving away from home is a big transition. McGill’s residences offer a welcoming and supportive living community where you can identify personally, socially, and academically. All first-year students are guaranteed housing if they apply for it. Limited subsidized housing is available for Indigenous students.

Indigenous student orientation

Take part in this activity and connect with student groups. Get to know your community at McGill. Join fellow students andcraft a home at the First Peoples’ House.

Learn more about First Peoples’ House.

Cultural events

Our vibrant culture at McGill is made together. Stay connected with the Indigenous Knowledge Lecture Series, pipe ceremonies, workshops, Indigenous Awareness Weeks, social gatherings and more.

Undergraduate studies

At McGill, we face challenges with determination and optimism. With 300+ programs and real-world learning opportunities, the McGill experience offers new pathways of education and prepares you for a successful career.

The Indigenous Applicants Protocol encourages admissions decision-makers to take educational experiences that are unique to Indigenous applicants into consideration. It also helps McGill’s dedicated Indigenous student recruitment advisor connect with applicants to share more information about support services and funding opportunities.

Medicine

The Faculty of Medicine aims to train more Indigenous health professionals, and to educate the greater population about the health needs of Indigenous people.

Learn more: mcgill.ca/x/3pg

Law

The Faculty of Law offers programs and courses focused on Indigenous law and governance. You can gain practical work experience and participate in outreach programs in local Indigenous communities.

Learn more: mcgill.ca/x/3SA

Graduate studies

McGill has a bold history of research guided by driven faculty at the top of their fields. With 1,600 tenured faculty members research and teach in more than 400 graduate programs. Join a diverse community committed to challenging the boundaries of knowledge and shaping a better future.

Find your desired area of research: mcgill.ca/gradapplicants/programs

Online continuing education programs

McGill’s School of Continuing Studies offers online certificate programs in Indigenous Business Management, Computers and Information Technology and Public Administration and Governance. These courses are university-level, undergraduate, for-credit programs. The programs are part-time, take about 2½ years to complete, and can be completed entirely from your home.

Learn about the admissions process.

Learn about the programs.

Explore continuing education programs

Find your place on campus

For many first-year students, moving away from home is a big transition. McGill’s residences offer a welcoming and supportive living community where you can identify personally, socially, and academically. All first-year students are guaranteed housing if they apply for it. Limited subsidized housing is available for Indigenous students.

Indigenous student orientation

Take part in this activity and connect with student groups. Get to know your community at McGill. Join fellow students andcraft a home at the First Peoples’ House.

Learn more about First Peoples’ House.

Cultural events

Our vibrant culture at McGill is made together. Stay connected with the Indigenous Knowledge Lecture Series, pipe ceremonies, workshops, Indigenous Awareness Weeks, social gatherings and more.

Undergraduate studies

At McGill, we face challenges with determination and optimism. With 300+ programs and real-world learning opportunities, the McGill experience offers new pathways of education and prepares you for a successful career.

The Indigenous Applicants Protocol encourages admissions decision-makers to take educational experiences that are unique to Indigenous applicants into consideration. It also helps McGill’s dedicated Indigenous student recruitment advisor connect with applicants to share more information about support services and funding opportunities.

Medicine

The Faculty of Medicine aims to train more Indigenous health professionals, and to educate the greater population about the health needs of Indigenous people.

Learn more: mcgill.ca/x/3pg

Law

The Faculty of Law offers programs and courses focused on Indigenous law and governance. You can gain practical work experience and participate in outreach programs in local Indigenous communities.

Learn more: mcgill.ca/x/3SA

Graduate studies

McGill has a bold history of research guided by driven faculty at the top of their fields. With 1,600 tenured faculty members research and teach in more than 400 graduate programs. Join a diverse community committed to challenging the boundaries of knowledge and shaping a better future.

Find your desired area of research: mcgill.ca/gradapplicants/programs

Online continuing education programs

McGill’s School of Continuing Studies offers online certificate programs in Indigenous Business Management, Computers and Information Technology and Public Administration and Governance. These courses are university-level, undergraduate, for-credit programs. The programs are part-time, take about 2½ years to complete, and can be completed entirely from your home.

Learn about the admissions process.

Learn about the programs.

Explore continuing education programs
Get funding for your studies

Dedicated funding is available for Indigenous students. You may also be eligible for bursaries and funding programs offered by the government and McGill.

McGill Oknnéra Undergraduate Award
Admission and returning Indigenous undergraduate students are eligible for funding through Indspire at $5,000 per year, up to $20,000 for a four year degree program.*

Provost’s Indigenous Achievement Award
This is a $5,000 renewable admission award given to Indigenous students with exceptional high school or CEGEP grades, and who are not granted a McGill Entrance Scholarship. When these awards are issued every year based on academic merit and all incoming students are automatically considered.

*Please note that funding for these awards is available to Canadian citizens only.

Indigenous Graduate Excellence Recruitment Fellowship
This non-renewable award, paid in installments over the first 12 months of study, provides support in addition to the core funding offered by a department, supervisor, or Faculty.

Funding available: PhD - $10,000 | Masters (Thesis) - $5,000 | Masters (Non-Thesis) - $2,500

Keep in touch

Interested in studying at McGill? Take the first step by connecting with us. Join our mailing list, or reach out to speak directly with an Indigenous recruiter.

Explore financial aid

mcgill.ca/undergraduate-admissions

Sign up for updates

Sign up for updates by email
Stay on top of deadlines, receive invites to virtual and in-person events, and be the first to know when a McGill representative is coming to your area.

Speak with an Indigenous recruiter
If you have questions about McGill, including our programs, including the admissions process and the Indigenous Applicants’ Portal, contact us directly at indigenousoutreach@mcgill.ca

Sage Karahkwinetha Goodleaf-Labelle
Kanien’keha:ka & Pueblo
Bachelor of Arts

Indigenous Student Guide
Interested in studying at McGill? Take the first step by connecting with us. Join our mailing list, or reach out to speak directly with an Indigenous recruiter.

Get funding for your studies

Dedicated funding is available for Indigenous students. You may also be eligible for bursaries and funding programs offered by the government and McGill.

McGill Ohkemez Undergraduate Award
Admitted and incoming Indigenous undergraduate students are eligible for funding through an annual $5,000 per year, up to $20,000 for a four year degree program.

Provost’s Indigenous Achievement Award
This is a $5,000 renewable admission award given to Indigenous students with exceptional high school or CEGEP grades, and who are not granted a McGill Entrance Scholarship. One to three awards are issued every year based on academic merit and all incoming students are automatically considered. Please note that funding for these awards is available to Canadian citizens only.

Indigenous Graduate Excellence Recruitment Fellowship
This non-renewable award, paid in installments over the first 12 months of study, provides support in addition to the core funding offered by a department, supervisor, or Faculty.
Funding available: PhD - $10,000, Masters (Thesis) - $7,500, Masters (Non-Thesis) - $7,000.

Indigenous Student Guide

Sage Karahkwinetha Goodleaf-Labelle
Kanien’keha:ka & Pueblo
Bachelor of Arts

Keep in touch

Explore financial aid
mcgill.ca/undergraduate-admissions

Sign up for updates by email
Stay on top of deadlines, receive invitations to virtual and in-person events, and be the first to know when a McGill representative is coming to your area.

Sign up for updates

Speak with an Indigenous recruiter
If you have questions about McGill, including our programs, the admissions process, and the Indigenous Applicants Portal, contact us directly at indigenousoutreach@mcgill.ca.